DESIGN & ENGINEERING

The design & engineering department of NK TEHNOLOĢIJA consists of a team of experienced and competent professionals in the dry bulk industry, specialising in the design and development of dry bulk material handling and transshipment infrastructure, equipment and facilities.

The design & engineering department prepares technical documentation for construction and assembly projects, as well as the necessary production documentation for equipment manufacturers. Furthermore, the department provides for all further project stages with approvals and inspections, whilst also abiding all applicable norms and regulations according to the end project location. During the design and development stages the department makes use of BIM and various other CAD programs, such as SolidWorks and AutoCAD.
